Of Kearney street, San Francisco, which was purchased at auction sale by our Mr. A. Hamburger.

We have just received 10 pieces of 44-inch all-wool sacking that we shall give you at 50c. It is worth that at the factory.

We shall open to-morrow about 15 cases of men's and boys' straw hats that range in price from 25c upwards.

We have received a lot or boys' suits and knee pants; the latter we offer at 75c a pair. You cannot buy the cloth for it. Suits from $3.50 upward.

IN MEN'S URNISHING GOODS

You will find big bargains. We have a very large stock, and our prices are beyond comparison with others. Recollect one thing, that our great success in business is the result of selling goods cheap. When we first came here the business was controlled by two firms. We started in selling goods cheap, and they started in selling them dear. The result, is that to-day we do the business, and they repeat their folly in letting us get their trade and the public's confidence away from them.

RECOLLECT ANOTHER THING.

We claim that the man, firm or concern that sells the same quality of goods for the least money is the house to trade with, and it is for you to ascertain who does sell the cheapest. Of course, the People's Store claims to be that house, and if you trade with us you will find it so. We have confidence in our goods and in our prices. We know that when we mark an article it cannot be sold with a profit at a less price. Now the item of shoes. We are confident beyond a doubt that our shoes are better and sold for less money than any one's. We buy them for cash, which is more than anyone else can say. We discount our bills, and that is more than others can say.

We have seventeen distinct departments; seventeen different business men, each of whom has to make up a combined profit of 22½ per cent. It costs us 15 per cent to sell goods, and we add a profit of 10 per cent to cover every other item. Deducted from this is 4 per cent allowed for cash, leaving us an expense of 18½ per cent to be made out of our seventeen departments. None can be run successfully under 25 per cent profit, and many as high as 300 per cent. Hence it follows that we sell cheaper than any house in town.

We offer bargains in every department of our stores. We haven't the space to enumerate, but will say that we have them in our stores. We have received big invoices of shoes, and are making this department a special feature. It will pay you to come in and see what we have, and then if you are pleased purchase. Country orders solicited.

The American sense of fair play is strong, and it demands, in the case of removed officers, that at least the reason, if any, upon which the removal is sought to be made, should be made public. The officer concerned has a right to demand as much. Justice demands it; decency dictates it.

Ben Sanna's demand for information as to the grounds upon which removals from office are made is no "invasion of the President's prerogative," or partisan attack. It is simply the exercise of a privilege, if not a specifically constitutional right on the part of the Senate.

Every officer or man against whom charges are made has a right to know what those charges are; he has a right a chance to defend himself against such accusations—against stabs in the dark and thrusts in the dark. The President and his Cabinet strikers may, however, appear to hold to this doctrine of secrecy in the matter of the appointees of the agents of the public's confidence away from them.

The Senate Caucus Raises a Direct Issue

IN REGARD TO REMOVALS FROM OFFICE.

The Muscuplabe Rancho Case—Female Suffragists in Convention—Proceedings in Senate and House.

Associated Press Dispatches to The Times.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—About twenty Republican Senators met in caucus this morning. Mr. Edmunds submitted resolutions from the Judiciary Committee, embodying the views of the Republican members respecting the rights of the Senate to information from heads of Executive Departments. The resolutions were approved and it was decided that they shall be offered in open session of the Senate. The resolutions are three in number. The first declares that the action of the Attorney General in refusing to furnish information when called for by the Senate, no matter what his motive may have been, was reprehensible. The second, declares that when the Senate has called or may call upon the heads of departments for information regarding removals from office, and the information is not furnished as requested, the Senate will not confirm the appointee. The third condemns the disregard of the law which requires that in the selections for office precedence be given to honorably discharged Union soldiers and sailors.

It is understood that the resolutions will be formally laid before the Judiciary Committee at its next meeting with a view to having them reported to the Senate immediately thereafter.

RANCHO MUSCUPIABE.

How it was Fraudulently Surveyed—Important Decision.

WASHINGTON, Feb 17.—The Secretary of the Interior has decided a most interesting case involving thousands of acres of land and an interesting history reaching back to the Mexican grants. The land in question is known as the Rancho Muscupiabe, located in San Bernardino county, Cal. The decison of the Secretary, which covers a large number of pages, says: "Henry Hancock, who received a half-interest in the grant from the original grantee, made over a quit claim deed in 1859 to his brother, John Hancock, for the purpose of concealing his interest in the grant. He then got himself appointed deputy surveyor to locate the claim. In making this survey with fraudulent intent, he included in the rancho nearly 26,000 acres in excess of what belonged to it. He extended the line eight miles further east, six miles further west than the respective boundaries would justify. By this means 30,144 acres were included, whereas the true boundaries only embraced 3,840 acres. The survey was therefore fraudulent, and Hancock knew it to be so. He nevertheless reported to the Surveyor General that it had been made in strict conformity to the terms of the grant. The Surveyor General was imposed upon because he had no knowledge of the fraudulent acts of Hancock. The notice of the survey was published in a paper remote from the place for the purpose of concealing the fraud. When the notes of the survey were sent to the General Land office here it was found that they did not conform to the decree of confirmation. The survey was accordingly set aside, and a new survey ordered. When it was reported to Hancock he represented to the Surveyor General that the price properly run would double one league of land more than at that time claimed. Believing this and reporting it to the General Land office, the Surveyor-General in Los Angeles urged the Attorney to confirm the survey and letters patent were issued. The fact having come to the knowledge of the Land Office that suit is in progress in the United States as plaintiff calling for the vacating of the patent, the Secretary has decided that the suit should go on, and that the attorney for the defendant that a great deal of this rancho is in the hands of innocent third parties, he says that is a matter for the courts to decide, and that an equity court will probably find no difficulty with it.

It is understood that the resolutions will be formally laid before the Judiciary Committee at its next meeting with a view to having them reported to the Senate immediately thereafter.

It is understood, however, that the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe road has laid considerable concessions to which the Union Pacific refused to agree. This was denied by General Agent Cannon, who said that all the representatives were dissatisfied and were unwilling to accept the terms of the agreement proposed by the committee appointed to prepare such. "In fact there no prospect of a compromise," was asked him. "Decidedly not, sir present," was the reply. "The organization has gone to smash. I cannot say what the effect will be and can give no details of our meetings."

ROSSA'S ASSAILANT.

Mrs. Dudley to be Released from the Insane Asylum.

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—Counsel for Mrs. Yseulte Dudley, who shot O'Donovan Rossa a year ago, is authority for the statement that she is cured, and that a certificate to that effect will be given by the State Superintendent of Lunacy, who will take her before a Supreme Court Judge and obtain an order for her release from the insane asylum. He says that the State Board of Charities have decided not to take any action looking towards sending her back to England. When O'Donovan Rossa was informed of the expected release of Mrs. Dudley he became suddenly grave, and suggested that she would probable be sent back to England, and expressed himself to not sure that effort will not try a repetition of her attempt on his life.

A Shocking Accident.

WILMINGTON, Del., Feb. 17.—A special from Tangier, Va., says: On Sunday afternoon Capt. W. L. Truitt's wife went to Sunday school, leaving four little children in the house. Three little girls named Cooper from a neighboring house came in, and while they were playing the fire went out. Capt. Truitt's daughter, aged seven years, put some kindling and oil in the stove, while another child struck a match and put it to the oil. By accident a terrible explosion followed. The child who held the can was instantly killed and a two-year-old boy was so badly injured that he died in three hours. The other Truitt children and the three visitors were horribly burned, but may possibly recover. The house was badly damaged, but the neighbors saved it from being burned. Capt. Truitt, who is away on his vessel, has not heard of the accident.

Colorado Silver Convention.

DENVER, Feb. 17.—The Colorado State Silver Convention met at the Academy of Music this morning. One hundred and fifty delegates were present, representing every county in the State. Ex-Senator Tabor was chosen President of the permanent organization. Resolutions were adopted instructing the organization created by this convention to accept no compromise upon the free and unlimited coinage of silver upon an equality with gold, and inviting the citizens of States to hold their Congressmen to strict accountability for their actions upon the silver question, and pledging themselves to vote for no man unless pledged to the free and unlimited coinage of silver.

PACIFIC COAST.

Latest Phase of the Chinese Agitation.

A TRAGIC AFFAIR IN PLUMAS COUNTY.

Programme of the G. A. R. Encampment in Sacramento—Life Sentence for a Stage Robber—The Prewett Trial.

Associated Press Dispatches to The Times.

SEATTLE, W. T., Feb. 17.—When the Chinamen were driven from Snohomish City last week, three who had proper y interests were allowed to remain, but were notified to leave by Monday last. On Monday, when told to go, they refused and said that they intended to remain. Late Monday night a dynamite cartridge was exploded under their house, wrecking the building, but not injuring the Chinamen. The latter pluckily moved into a part of the building that was not destroyed, and reiterated their determination to stay. This morning a number of shots were fired into the house, but none of the Chinamen were injured, and at last accounts they were still holding the fort and declaring that they would not leave.

RED BLUFF CELESTIALS STICK.

RED BLUFF, Feb. 17.—To-day was the day set for the Chinese to go, but only two left. The presence of the Chinese Vice Consul and a Deputy Marshal prevented any demonstration against those who decided to remain here. A strict boycott is maintained by the League and after March 1st a general boycott will be inaugurated in every direction.

FLOCKING TO SAN FRANCISCO.

The Anti-Chinese agitation throughout the Pacific coast has caused an influx of Chinese to this city. The average weekly arrivals by rail and water from interior and coast points number 1,000.

ANOTHER BABY RESCUED FROM CHINESE.

Detective Cox and Glennon found a white baby—a blue eyed girl about two years old, in a Chinese lodging house on Jackson street near Dupont this afternoon. The child was turned over to Secretary Hunter.

TRAGIC AFFAIR.

A Jealous Husband Killed—His Slayer Acquitted.

OROVILLE, Cal., Feb. 17.—Dr. L. F. Cate, County Treasurer of Plumas county, shot and killed Dan Folsom in Quincy last evening. Folsom has threatened Cate's life, and, meeting him, drew his pistol and fired twice, but missed his aim. Cate then fired at Folsom and killed him. Both men are well known in Plumas, and Dr. Cate is one of the oldest and most respected citizens of that county. There was no cause for the attack made by Folsom.

ANOTHER ACCOUNT.

GREENVILLE, Cal., Feb. 17.—About two weeks ago Dan Folsom's wife left him and went to San Francisco. Harmony had not existed for some months before this flight. The husband pressed her for the reason for leaving him and their three children. She confessed to criminal relations with Dr. Cate, the county treasurer. The confession was reduced to writing and sworn to. Cate was at Sacramento settling with the State when this occurred. Folsom was enraged, and evidently intended to attack Cate on his return. Friends informed the latter before he reached Quincy, and kept him out of the way for a couple of days. Cate says the statement is false. Folsom would not advise with his friends. Cate's son, a young denist, has been with him since his father returned from Sacramento. Folsom was in Quincy to-day. Cate and son were coming out of the courthouse yard at noon, when Folsom started toward them and commenced firing at the Treasurer. The son fired in return. Seven or eight shots were exchanged. One struck Folsom's jugular vein, causing death in a few minutes. Neither of the Cates was hit. The Treasurer has been a much respected citizen of Plumas county for thirty years. Folsom's reputation was good. He was a Knight Templar. The jury returned a verdict of justifiable homicide, and the Cates were discharged from custody. The excitement is cooling down.

G. A. R.

The Annual Encampment to Begin at Sacramento To-day.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Feb. 17.—The annual encampment of the Department of California Grand Army of the Republic will begin in this city to-morrow afternoon. The event is of unusual importance. The convocation is expected to draw together 250 of nearly 400 delegates to the encampment, and arrangements will be made during their meeting for the national encampment to be held at San Francisco in August. The first session of the encampment will be held at 2:30, at Odd Fellows Temple, and morning and afternoon meetings will take place each day thereafter, until the business of the department is finished on Saturday, when business to be transacted by the department encampment during the session, consists in receiving reports of retiring officers, the election of officers, providing for a Veteran's Home, the arrangements for the national encampment, which is expected to bring many thousands of people to the State next summer, and the election of a Department Commander to command during that important period. Among other things for consideration is the disbursement during the national encampment of $25,000 appropriated by the last Legislature.

The election for Department Commander will take place Friday, and on Saturday evening the Veterans will attend a grand batquet at Armory Hall, tendered them by members of Sumner and Warren Posts and the Relief Corps of this city.

THE PREWETT TRIAL.

Delay Caused by a Sharp Sheriff and Fly Detective.

HOLLISTER, Feb. 17.—This morning a report gained currency that proceedings of a decidedly sensational nature might be looked for this afternoon in the Prewett trial. As a result, long before the hour set for reconvening the vicinity of the courthouse was thronged with a curious crowd. During the day two reports had been freely circulated, one being that Charles Stanton, a private detective in the employ of John Curtin of San Francisco, had been here for some days in the interests of the defense, and that in the guise of a peddler of patent squirrel extirminators had secured the acquaintance of Costello, he had visited a number of citizens who had been subpœnaed and endeavored to disqualify them as jurors. It was stated that on the reopening of court the prosecution would endeavor to have him arraigned for contempt. The other report, which caused renewed excitement and added interest, was that the defense would object to the venire of fifty jurors subpœnaed by Sheriff Ross and Under Sheriff Harris, as per order of the court Tuesday. It was publicly stated on a bulletin board that the defense claimed that the sheriff claimed on starting out to fill the venire that he would get a jury this time that would convict Prewitt, and that the defense would insist on the entire fifty being excused, and the appointment of citizens to subpœna a new venire. Both reports proved correct, Staunton being cited to appear for contempt to-morrow morning, and the defense's challenge to the panel being allowed and citizens appointed to summon a new panel for Friday at 10 o'clock.

FOR LIFE.

Heavy Sentence Passed on a Stage Robber.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 17.—William Smith, alias Selbush, convicted of robbing the United States mails in Calaveras and Tuolumne counties, was this morning sentenced, in the United States Circuit Court, to life imprisonment at hard labor. Smith is a German, twenty-six years old. He came to this county when he was seventeen. When able to read he invested extensively in cheap literature, and when arrested a number of dime novels were found on his person. On one occasion Smith "stood up" seventeen men and stopped four wagons that came along, while he leisurely examined the treasure box. He was also arrested for robbery of the stage running between Milton and Sonora, Tuolumne county.

Heavy Failure.

SPOKANE FALLS, W. T., Feb. 17.—The general merchandise house of Schline Bros., the largest in the city, was closed by attachment to-day. Last night Daniel Moyer, of San Francisco, put on an attachment for $12,000, and the Traders' National Bank of this city for $5000. This morning other attachments to the amount of $43,000 were put on by San Francisco creditors. Liabilities, about $120,090, of which about $60,000 is in San Francisco, and $20,000 in Portland. There is considerable in Chicago and $15,000 here. The assets are unknown, but supposed to consist of $50,000 in stock and probably the same amount in notes.

Darcy's Chinaman Recaptured.

BAKERSFIELD, Feb. 17.—The Chinaman sentenced to State's prison for five years for burglary at Los Angeles, who jumped from the passenger train and escaped, at Tehachepi, February 12, was recaptured coming into Sumner this morning. He showed fight but was overpowered and safely lodged in jail. Deputy Sheriff F. M. Darcy, of Los Angeles, takes him to San Quentin to-night.

The Craft Murder.

WOODLAND, Cal., Feb. 17.—This morning the examination of J. H. Harlan and F. J. Barnes, charged with the murder of E. T. Craft, commenced before Judge Ruggles. It is expected that the examination will not be completed until Saturday.

STRIKES.

Freight Traffic Suspended on Morgan's Line.

NEW ORLEANS, Feb. 17.—The brakeman's strike on the Morgan railroad has caused a complete cessation of work in every part of the Morgan possessions in Algiers. No freight trains go out, and the laborers will neither discharge nor load the steamships at the wharf. The manager of Morgan's Louisiana and Texas Railroad and Steamship Company said that there was nothing to do but wait for events to shape themselves He had telegraphed to New York to stop all shipments of freight by the steamships of this line. The Southern Pacific Railroad Company has issued a notice to shippers that no freight would be received at Morgan's depot for shipment owing to interference of the strikers. The notice states that this measure will be in force until the strike is over, as trains trains cannot be moved without being arbitrarily stopped at Gretna and other points.

A GENERAL STRIKE FEARED.

HOUSTON, Tex., Feb. 17.—Brakemen on the Third Division of the Southern Pacific Railroad quit work to-day in sympathy with the striking brakemen at New Orleans. They made the same demands as the Gretna strikers and have sent word to the Pacific coast. No freight trains left here to-day on the Southern Pacific. How far west the strike extends is not yet known, but indications are that it will extend to San Francisco. A report is current that the engineers will also strike, as they have been dissatisfied since last fall because of certain dismissals. Trouble is also anticipated on Texas Central railways.

AGRICULTURAL.

Proceedings of the American Association at New York.

NEW YORK, Feb. 17.—The convention of the American Agricultural and Dairy Association was held here to-day. Congressman P. T. Glass, of Tennessee, read a paper entitled "What We Have Done for Agriculture and What Agriculture Has Done for Us." He asserted that the United States appropriated less for agricultural purposes than any other country, Switzerland excepted. Mr. Glass maintained that the amount appropriated by Congress for the advancement of agriculture was too small to be of material benefit. The agricultural population of the country was about fifty-two per cent. of the entire population. Mr. Glass advocated the establishment of agricultural stations for experimental purposes.

At the afternoon session Charles A. Wetmore, of California, spoke of the wine industry of the United States. His State, he said, was producing annually 15,000,000 gallons of wine in addition to quantities of raisins. Within three years, the speaker thought, the wine production would reach 60,000,000 gallons France exports more wine than any other country. She could make enough to supply the demand. California in a few years would be shipping wine to France if the present conditions should continue. There is practically no limit to territory upon which grapes can be raised. Resolutions were passed recommending a Cabinet officer for agriculture, and endorsing Senator Cullom's bill regulating inter-State commerce.

Pasadena Mails and the Postoffice Department.

The mails between Los Angeles and Pasadena are at present carried by the San Gabriel Valley Railroad, by arrangement with the former Star-route contractor, Mr. Vore, and that to the former's accommodation are due the present facilities and greater dispatch in arrival and departure of the mails of Pasadena and South Pasadena. The compensation fixed by law to railroads for mail service is slightly and justly greater than allowed to wagon-routes, in some cases envolving as it does, greater dispatch, delivery at terminal and postoffices en route, frequent service, etc. The L. A. & S. G. V. have for some months past, with consent of the Star-route contractor, sought a transfer to itself of such contract through the established channels, and by the intercession of Col. Markham. He finds, however, an obstructionist in the person of the Second Assistant Postmaster General, who fails to appreciate the needs of the people in this matter as in the case of the reasonable request by the people of Los Angeles and San Diego for improved facilities and quicker time.

Col. Markham, who writes to Mr. Blankenhorn, General Freight and Passenger Agent of the San Gabriel Valley Railroad, says that "he feels satisfied the change will be made. The desire of the department to run that branch (mail routes) with great economy, but at the entire expense and convenience of the public they will find neither popular nor business like."

The people of Pasadena will perhaps not relish the possible return to the slowness of stage coach mails.

They All Do It.

L. G. A. Stranbo, formerly connected with the TIMES-MIRROR job rooms, returned yesterday from the East. He left some months ago confident that he never would return, but a few weeks of snow-storms, cyclones and blizzards brought him to his senses, and hereafter California will be good enough for him. Mr. Stranbo makes the fourth TIMES-MIRROR employe who has left within a year for the East "never, never to return," but somehow they have all got back to the fold.

Socialist Rioters on Trial in London.

A POLITICAL SENSATION IN ROME.

Austria Objects to American Insurance Companies—California Wheat Bringing Low Prices in England.

Associated Press Dispatches to The Times.

LONDON, Feb. 17.—The hearing in the case of the Socialist leaders, Hyndmann, Burns, Champion and Williams, charged with inciting to riot, contempt of law, etc., in connection with the recent demonstration in London, began in the Bow-street police court this morning.

Poland asked that all the prisoners be committed for trial. He said the prosecution had nothing of a political nature in it, and urged that the men had been prosecuted for a misdemeanor. The case, continued, consisted of the utterance by the different defendants of expressions and sentiments with an intent to provoke a breach of the peace. These utterances were made at meetings held at Trafalgar Square and Hyde Park on Monday of last week. Burns, at the Trafalgar Square meeting, said to the a soublage: "Unless we get bread, they will get lead," and "The next time we will sack the bakers' shops." It was Burns who suggested to the mobs to march through the West End. When the mob arrived at Hyde Park Burns again addressed the rioters, and said: "We have shown what we can do. We will try powder and shot if they do not accede, and there will be a revolution." Champion, in his speeches to the rioters on the same day, urged his hearers to influence the police and army to join the people. Williams, in his address, urged the people to organize, saying he was willing to have starving working men confront soldiers unless the former were organized. Hyndman said: "Let us show a firm front. If peaceable means fail, I will be the first to summon you."

The case was adjourned for one week. The prisoners were allowed to give bail.

A GALLANT COLONEL'S STRATEGY.

LONDON, Feb. 17.—Col. Burleigh, who accompanied the Soudan expedition as correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, was presented at Glasgow to-day with a clock and statuette and purse containing £300. While the committee charged with the presentation were calling upon Col. Burleigh, a sheriff's officer appeared with a warrant claiming all the presents from the chairman on behalf of Mr. Tagg, against whom Col. Burleigh has brought an action for slander, the suit being an outcome of the late electoral campaign. Mr. Tagg brought a counter action, and both cases are now pending. Mr. Tagg's intention to secure possession of the presents had become known in some way, and the presents had been given in private to Col. Burleigh. When the sheriff's officer arrived, the Colonel, holding the purse aloft, declared that he had a good grip on it, and intended to keep it. The committee threw themselves in front of him, and wound up the meeting by singing, "He's a Jolly Good Fellow."

The suit originates in a letter in regard to the severe criticism of the American Tontine Insurance system which is exceedingly unpopular here. The question has been put in Reichstadt why the State should control the native insurance societies when it does not control the foreign societies, especially the American, many of which are condemned as unsound in America.

ENLARGED SHEET

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 18, 1886.

The Senate and the President.

The issue between the Senate and the President of the United States, on the question of the right of the former to demand from the heads of executive departments information touching removals from office, is about made up. Horns are locked and the fight, already begun, will soon be prosecuted in earnest.

Among the Washington dispatches of yesterday was the following:

About twenty Republican Senators met in caucus this morning, and Senator Edmunds submitted resolutions from the Judiciary Committee embodying the views of the Republican members of that committee respecting the right of the Senate to information from heads of the Executive Departments. The resolutions were approved, and it was decided to offer them in open session of the Senate.

The resolutions are three in number. The first declares that the action of the Attorney-General in refusing to furnish information when called for by the Senate (no matter what his motive may have been) was reprehensible. The second declares that in cases where the Senate has called, or may call, upon the heads of departments for information regarding removals from office, and the information is not furnished as requested, the Senate will not confirm the appointee. The third resolution condemns the disregard, by the administration, of the law which requires that, in selections for office, precedence shall be given to honorably discharged Union soldiers and sailors.

These resolutions, it is understood, will be formally laid before the Judiciary Committee at its next meeting, with a view to having them reported to the Senate immediately thereafter. If passed—and we believe they will be—the issue will be joined and the fighting forced.

It seems to us that the positions taken by the Republicans on these questions, as outlined in the above resolutions, are very strong, if not absolutely impregnable. Long-headed and brainy Edmunds knew what he was about when he drafted those resolutions, and had no notion of getting tripped, or permitting his party in the Senate to get tripped, when he and they planted themselves on the ground here assumed.

The action of the Attorney-General in refusing to furnish information demanded by the Senate is unprecedented and clearly indefensible. Appointments are made, under the Constitution, by the President "with the advice and consent of the Senate." Is, then, the Senate to be ignored and defied by the President, or by any of his Cabinet officers, when it demands information necessary to its intelligent action upon nominations submitted to it? Such a position is utterly indefensible. The Senate of the United States cannot be treated as a "bump on a log" with impunity by Mr. Cleveland.

The second resolution is in the nature of a positive "cinch" on his High Mightiness. It declares that when information regarding removals is demanded and refused, the Senate will not confirm the appointee. There the Solons have the "weather gauge" on Grover, and, officially, he will be like a man bound hand and foot so long as he adheres to his indefensible position. The Senate in this has taken strong ground, and may be expected to maintain it firmly. Both sides will stand fast, and the fight is a beautiful one as it stands.

The third resolution, condemning the disregard by the Administration of the law giving precedence, in appointments, to honorably-discharged Union soldiers and sailors, is also a strong point made by the Republican Senators. It is so manifestly just that the country will side with the Senate as against the President. That law, passed by a Republican Congress, was intended to mean something, and the soldiers and patriotic citizens of the Republic do not mean to see it deliberately ignored and defied without at least a vigorous protest and a righteous denunciation of its Democratic defiers.

As the facts touching the pending irrepressible conflict between the Senate and the President come out, they show some curious and scandalous phases of current Democratic politics. "I do not think it is fair," said a gentleman who stands very close to the President, "to place all of the blame for the refusal to furnish the papers on suspended cases upon Mr. Cleveland. The Democratic members of the Senate and House have been in a terrible state of anxiety ever since the question was raised, and have actually been on their knees at the White House praying the President not to disclose the facts. Many of them would be in a bad way if the papers were sent to the Senate, and the methods they have used to get Republicans ousted from office were published. Whatever they have come to Washington, or nearly always, to get a man removed, the President has required them to file charges, and some of the charges would, if published, create a decided sensation where those against whom they were made are known. One Ohio Congressman, for example, from the eastern portion of that State, would be in a dreadful box in case one prominent suspended official were to know what he was suspended for. The Congressman owes him a large sum of money, long since due, and there are some circumstances relating to the making of the note which came very near to a case of forgery. The suspended official was generous enough not to give the affair away, for he knew very well it would blight the prospects of the Congressman, who is not overpopular, and was re-elected by the aid of the votes of Republicans who preferred him to the other Democratic candidate, because of his activity in protesting a local interest to which his rival was opposed. The man who holds the note occupied an office of some prominence, and was suspended at the instance of the Congressman last summer, who made charges reflecting upon his personal character and official integrity. The Congressman has always claimed that he had nothing to do with the suspension, and his credit now believes him, but there are papers on file that would make a very lively row if they were disclosed. And this is only one of many similar cases. I have argued that the President owes it to himself to send in all the papers and let those who have made the charges face the odium, but you might as well ask the Capitol building to get up and go to the other end of Washington as to argue with the President when his mind is fixed."

There is, no doubt, much truth in this statement. The Senators and Representatives who have had officials removed have used some very disreputable methods, which they naturally do not care to have exposed, but the President and the members of the Cabinet have been perfectly aware of the character of these methods, and have encouraged them and assisted in carrying them out, with a full knowledge of their injustice. The Senators and Congressmen who, since the 4th of last March, have been recklessly making charges against the integrity and fidelity of their neighbors, without supposing that their treachery would be exposed, do not want to shoulder the responsibility or be compelled to prove the accusations they have made. The President has asked no proof. He has simply said, "If you want this man turned out, make some charge against him—give me some reason for his removal;" and the reason, true or false, and usually false, has been promptly furnished and acted upon without investigation or consideration. The Republican Senators know this, and for this reason they demand the papers. They are right.

"HELLO, CENTRAL!"

The Telephone Agony and How the Old Thing Works Here.

Two years ago, when the telephone system was not half as complicated as it is now, the managers of that institution made a regulation that when the central office was called, the caller should at once place the andiphone or listening part of the apparatus to his ear. The reply from the central came like a flash and one was at once connected with the number he required. This happy state of things lasted quite a while, but since three or four months the telephone system has lost so much of its old time usefulness as to have become a downright nuisance. Complaints from all parts are numerous, and though there is considerable grumbling at the badly insulated condition of the wires, the greatest amount of faultfinding is with the inefficient staff at the central office.

As worked at present the telephone is a delusion and a snare, and will be the cause of more people from Los Angeles going to sheol, owing to the cuss-words employed in connection with Edison's discovery, than any old government mule team ever was charged with.

Take matters as they are now, and judge for yourself. You ring the bell twice, and take down the listening tube. You hear nothing, but you wait patiently. You ring again and listen—no answer. Time flies along and you come to think that you would have done better to walk to the house of the party you wish to speak with. Then you get good and sick, and call the Central within five minutes. If you get disgusted and quit ringing you get nothing, but if you continue ringing and keep it up, one arm gets tired grinding the bell and the other tired holding that infernal audiphone, your mouth gets puckered up into an hysterical "Hello!" and when the Central at last condescends to answer, your temper is gone, you have forgotten what you wanted and you feel more like saying cuss-dam than trying to recollect what you want. As often as not, when you have attracted the Central's attention, they mis-connect you. You want the doctor, and oh! Lord, they connect you with an undertaker. You call the butcher, but you get the baker. Then again, whilst doing your best to understand a correspondent who seems to have left her false teeth on the piano, some two or three others break in and a very babel sets your brain in a whirl, or else the ticking of a Morse instrument breaks you all up. If you conclude to call up the Central again to know what is the matter, as like as not you get snubbed for your pains, or are brusquely shut up and off, as you can soon find out if you try to ring the bell. And this is like all kind of treatment the subscribers have to submit to from the people whom they pay for the services they do not render. Make a complaint to the telephone official outside of the office, and he will strenuously deny that the state of affairs here presented is the truth. He is willing to make a test case, and goes with you into a place where a telephone is kept. He gives two short rings—perfectly well known at headquarters—and, if he gets the attention at the Central, is perfectly triumphant, and looks as if willing into belligerence ought to be your immediate fate. If he cannot get them in less than five minutes, he declares your telephone out of order, though it has been working well before and afterwards, excepting that you have to wait so long to be connected that the instrument is of no practical benefit to you. Out come his keys, he opens everything, puckers up his lip, taps the diaphragm, looks at the battery, the carbons and what not, and goes away quite contented. That's all the consolation you get. Numerous are the complaints made, and numerous are the left-handed blessings called down upon the central office, but nothing seems to be done to improve the system. In getting place outside of the city, it is but just to say that some difficulties exist which cannot wholly be blamed to the central office. There is such a thing as bad insulation, induction currents, too many offices on the same line, etc., which ought to be taken into consideration. But as a general proposition the TIMES means to state that the telephone system as now worked in Los Angeles city is ineffective, insufficient, aggravating, and an unpleasant concern. In order to substantiate this proposition a TIMES reporter interviewed ten subscribers last evening, and what they had to say is given below: Dr. Crawford—"Shaking up the telephone company don't do a bit of harm. The service is not good, and you can never get a line without hearing a number of voices on it. In the time, too, to get the central."

G. Vignolo, of Vignolo & Co.: "As the telephone is now, it is a nuisance. Wearing up the Central about ten minutes, and two out of three times they give us the wrong number. If this keeps on, we don't want the telephone any longer. It is no use paying $5 a month as it is now."

N. Mercadante, First street: "What do I think of the telephone? If it don't work any better, I'll take it down on the first of the month. I have to call the Central five or six times before I get an answer, now."

The Natick House has no special trouble: "We are annoyed at times very much, whilst we can't get the Central."

Mr. Seymour, of the Grange Store, was found grinding away at the bell, and covered with perspiration. His patience was oozing fast. "All the parties that knew anything about the telephone have left. I have been at it half an hour, now, and haven't got the Central yet. Don't go away, yet, I ain't quite dangerous yet." He was still ringing and bellowing when our reporter left.

Castruccio Bros., of the Esperanza, said: "We could not use our telephone one day last month. When they came to collect we wouldn't pay. Now it is a little better. Now I have but little complaint to make. I don't want to be hard on them, and then, you know, I didn't pay them a cent, ah! ah!"

Poest, Orr & Sutch: "We have had a good deal of trouble with the telephone, and blame it to the Central office. And it is not an uncommon occurrence to hear five or six voices on one line mixed."

Sam Meyer, butcher, Spring street: "My telephone works well. I cannot complain. Several subscribers, notably W. C. Furrey's people, have come here to use mine."

W. C. Furrey's bookkeeper said, in reply to the reporter's inquiry: "It is a damned shame the way we get treated by the Telephone Company. All the skilled hands have left, and when we complain, the telephone people come here and preach patience. Some times we can't get the Central at all. And then the young fellow in the office is cheeky, but the girl is not."

Man at the Telephone.

Ringing the regulation two bells, he gets a return ring and a "Well?" in due process, and he makes his wants known in about the following manner: "I want one hundred and twenty." * * * * "One hundred and twenty." * * * * "This is eighty-nine, and I want one hundred—and—twenty." Ringing again. "Hello! * * * Hello! * * * Hello!" * * * * "Well, hello! Can you send me that coal I— * * * Who is this? * * * * No, I want one hundred and twenty. Did n't call for one hundred and sixteen. Sorry to trouble you. Good-bye."

(Rings two bells again.) "Central! * * * Well, who is it? * * * Eh? Twenty-seven? * * * No, I want Central! * * * Yes, I understand—(Two bells.)"

Rings again, desperately. "Hello Central! Hello! This is eighty-nine, and won't you please give me one hundred and twenty? * * * Yes, but I didn't get it. You didn't give it to me."

Rings again. "Hello! Who is this? * * Eh? * * (Angrily) How many people are talking on this line? * * * Do you hear me? * * * * * "Yes." * * * * "Yes!" * * * "Now, I want one hundred and twenty."

Weak, but determined, he rings again for Central. "Yes this is eighty-nine. Do you think you can possibly let me have one hundred and twenty? * * Yes. * That is what I said. * * One hundred and twenty."

Then comes back to him from the sweet-voiced girl at Central: "Number one-twenty is busy. Call him up some other day. Good-bye!"

Chaff and Wheat.

To the Editor of the Times—SIR: Zoilus at one time presented to the god Apollo, a caustic criticism upon a most admirable work, in which he noticed none of the virtues of the work he had so severely reviewed. The god said to him, "You have said nothing of the excellence of this work;" to which Zoilus replied, "I busied myself only with its errors." As a punishment for his injustice the god gave him a bag of wheat, and ordered him to winnow the chaff. In viewing the defense in the Perkins-Baldwin case, now on trial, it seems that the foregoing lesson had been faithfully copied. The object seems to be only to discuss or prove errors on the part of the plaintiff, and to prevent her virtues or the truth of her cause to be made known.

It is not claimed by the defense that Mr. Baldwin possesses any virtues or excellence, and he has already confessed under oath to his own wrong-doing. To a casual observer the great object of the defense seems to be to prove that Miss Perkins is as immoral as their now luck-less client—not that Mr. Baldwin has any virtues, but that Miss Perkins is as devoid of them as he. This is a defense, indeed! OBSERVER.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., February 16.

"Raised."

To the Editor of the Times—SIR: The suggestions of an "Anxious Mother" ditto "Father" as regards a remedy (castration) for the crime of seduction, etc., would no doubt prove effectual if it were possible to obtain such laws. In times past such suggestions have not received enthusiastic approval. History even records that a Pope (his official title has slipped my mind) suggested that all who wished to enter the priesthood undergo castration, and no doubt theoretically met with no opposition, but practically, well, they are not castrated by a large majority. Why not? To not be behind in subscription to the "Mother" and "Anxious Father" fund, to obtain laws to conform with each others suggestions, put me down for $20 to be willing to have both sexes protected.

C. U. SCHUNS.

To the Editor of the Times—SIR: I agree with "A Mother" that castration would be the remedy to put a stop to this crime of seduction. That would save our young and innocent girls from such vile, lecherous and loathsome wretches as the Beast Baldwin, has, from his cell month to month, the witness stand, shown himself to be. Let the punishment of castration include the pimps—opium fiends—men who are guilty of living off the money made by their mistresses, girls or easy virtue. Do this, and where we now have one hundred prostitutes we would have that many more happy wives, rearing children that would make useful citizens. We could then solve the great problem, how to check the social evil. You can count on me for $25 towards a fund to be presented to the hold and fearless legislator who will have the courage to present a bill covering the above suggestions. A FATHER.

SEEKERS OF HOME PROPERTY SHOULD visit the grounds to be sold at auction on Thursday, Feb. 25, in Pasadena Highlands. Too much in their praise cannot be said. A visit alone will convince you that perfection of location is a moderate estimate of their actual worth. Residents of Pasadena who saw this locality after having purchased their homes in the valley, have expressed sincere regret that they did not first examine this most beautiful site.

We do not wish you to rely solely on our representations, but do ask and urge you to go out and see for yourself. The grandeur of the scenery will well repay cost and trouble. Take your marine glass with you, as the scenery is limited by the limit of vision only.

So long as you intend to build a home somewhere in this vicinity, why not first see if what we claim is not true, viz: That no site near Los Angeles compares with it in beauty of scene and magnificence of surroundings.

Prominent Pasadenians have frequently expressed regret that their town did not locate its center at this point. It was not done for the sole reason they were at the time ignorant of its merit, not having seen the ground. Mr. O. A. Swartwout, the owner, until day of sale personally looks after visitors. A special excursion train will be run on day of sale, leaving at 10 a. m., for accommodation of guests. Round trip tickets 50c. For sale by Messrs. Stoll & Thayer, stationers, No. 3 S. Spring st., on and after Thursday, 18th inst., to day before sale. See auction and excursion advertisement in another column.

MOTHERS BUY B. & S. HOMEOPATHIC COUGH & CROUP SYRUP. HAS STOOD THE TEST OF TIME.

PRICE PER BOTTLE, FIFTY CENTS.

The Safest, Most Reliable, and One of the Oldest Family Medicines in the Market.

Thousands of families are constantly using it in different parts of the Union. Recommended by physicians as the most convenient and surest remedy for CROUP. Keep it on hand for emergencies. The attacks of Croup in most cases come suddenly and unexpectedly, generally in the middle of the night, when medicine and advice cannot readily be obtained, that a POSITIVE REMEDY FOR CROUP AND CHOUPY COUGH—one that is speedy in its action, pleasant to the taste and always ready for use—becomes a great desideratum. All these conditions are fulfilled by B. & S. Homeopathic Cough and Croup Syrup.

This preparation has been in use for over 10 or 15 years, and thousands of valuable lives have been saved As a remedy for Coughs, Catarrh on the Chest, Bronchitis and Pneumonia it is without a peer, for children as well as adults. In Asthma, especially Humid Asthma, it greatly aids in cutting short the paroxysms and preventing their return.

B. & S. Homeopathic Cough and Croup Syrup does away with the necessity of resorting to all sorts of soothing syrups, which are dangerous to use in many little lives as frequently often saves. It assists nature in curing or relieving all diseases of the respiratory organs, whether acute or chronic.

The above to be had at all drug stores, or may be obtained direct from our

PERKINS-BALDWIN.

Arguing the Case Before the Jury.

MR. WILLIAMS'S IMPASSIONED SPEECH.

A Straightforward Story—Some Base Perjuries Terribly Scored—Col. Wells Begins and Toys with Trifles.

Court was called to order at 10 a. m. yesterday, all the interested parties being present except Baldwin, who did not arrive till 11. Mr. Eads was put upon the stand long enough to make a couple of trivial corrections in his testimony. There were a good many in the lobby, and Col. Howard was anxious to have everyone excluded from the courtroom. The Court said that no one could remain except those heretofore admitted, and such as have been invited by the counsel. If anyone made any demonstration of applause, or laughed loudly, the offender would be expelled from the room and not allowed to return.

MR. WILLIAMS'S SPEECH.

Earnest and Effective Statement of the Case.

The argument for the prosecution was opened by Mr. Williams at 10:10. His speech was earnest, and at times eloquent, and was a terrible arraignment of defendant. He said:

"This important and memorable trial is about to terminate. I have no doubt you are glad of it. It is an important case because of the defendant's age, notoriety and wealth; of the plaintiff's youth, inexperience and poverty. It is important on account of its bearing on the interests of society, good government and morality.

THE LITTLE GIRL.

In 1879, the plaintiff, then a child of 13, came from Ventura with her New England parents—honest, industrious, economical and hard-working people—who settled in the Los Angeles valley and tilled its soil. They are of moderate circumstances and thorough respectability. Not a breath against their honorable standing has been heard. The only child at home, the pride of their hearts, came with them—a girl of limited experience and education. In '82 her father rented some of Baldwin's land; and in December of that year she first met Perkins on the ranch house. The parents knew nothing of Baldwin's reputation. Honest themselves, they suspected nothing in others. This little 13 year-old child went with her father to hold the young horses or open the gates. Arriving at Baldwin's mansion.

SHE FIRST MET BALDWIN,

being introduced by his brother-in-law, Mrs. Dexter. He said he had heard Mrs. Dexter speak of her before and felt acquainted. They asked her to stop at that beautiful mansion a few days. The child was delighted at the thought. Mr. Perkins wanted her to go home; but, in the language of the old farmer, they "jumped on to have her stay"—and the father humored her wish. She stayed several days. Baldwin took her over his beautiful domain behind his fine team. He paid her extraordinary attention, and I have no doubt she felt proud at those attentions from a man of such prominence. These innocent farmers in the hands of these two white-headed old people. After a course of such attentions, Baldwin and Mrs. Dexter invited her to go to San Francisco. It was but natural that she should be glad of a chance to see all the sights of the great city. Mr. Baldwin and Mrs. Dexter urged the parents to let her go; they promised to care for her as their own daughter. Those parents yielded, and also went under the protection of Baldwin and Mrs. Dexter. He had paid her marked attention. She was evidently in love with him, and it was natural. Then, in his San Francisco home he ASKED HER TO MARRY HIM.

RELIEVED THEIR DAUGHTER SAFE

She declined at first, and thought of what her parents would say. He said they would not object. It would be all right. A few days later he approached her again as to matrimony—told her of his vast wealth, and of the luxury she should enjoy as his wife. And when she consented he took from his finger a ring he admits was worth $1600, and put it on her finger. And he took from his person a diamond and promised to have it made into a ring. He did so, and the ring is here in evidence. A few days later Baldwin asked Mrs. Dexter to win him over to his views. Her native modesty and prudence shrank, but Mrs. Dexter and Baldwin, the one to whom her parents had intrusted her, said that it was all right, that they were already

MARRIED IN THE SAME AS MARRIED.

She relied upon him. He was her protector, not only by virtue of his pledge to her parents, but by his pledge to her to make her his lawful wife. And this was accomplished his devilish designs. She had a right to expect he would keep his promise. She was introduced by him as respectable people, was the associate of his daughters, dined with the able lawyer who now represents the case—and with his family, and went out in public with the man to whom she had pledged herself. And in the case two months to come she was betrayed and deserted.

HARRY HIS VICTIM.

He felt guilty and fearful. He came to the house—after hearing all against the girl that he had alleged—and told her mother that his intentions were honorable. In a few weeks he went to San Francisco and got married. The first intimation the girl or her parents had was in the papers. The honest old parents, determined that the girl should retrieve herself. They were

NOT AFTER HIS MONEY.

They preempted her a claim in a store in this city to earn an honest living—to live down the past. But she was not permitted to retrieve the past in peace. Baldwin came to the store and sought her out. He asked to talk with her. He told her she was the only girl he ever loved; that he would get a divorce from his wife, and would make his promise to her good. He wished her to run away with him. Thus he admits all we claim—the engagement. It is

and the circumstances bear her out. His version bears the impress of falsehood. He says he went to that store and asked to see her in private—just to see what she meant by a little note she had sent

A YEAR BEFORE.

He said he had promised to lend her $500 to visit an uncle East—and conveniently forgot it. A little matter of $500 slipped his mind! Who believes that? She declined to go away with him, and returned to her honest employment in the store. [Here Baldwin entered.] There is no breath of suspicion against her conduct there. You know by the zeal the defense has shown in blackening her character, if there had been the slightest impropriety, they would have dragged it out. But she felt her position keenly—the scorn and slights she met. And at last she left this city in desperation with Mr. Fallon, planning

REVEN TO RETURN.

She might have been the inmate of a brothel now but for her precious mother. They have stated that if she did not confirm perjury in swearing out that complaint, whose sole object was to bring her erring daughter back! And, the poor girl was brought back—but her last chance was gone. The affair was about the disgraceful elopement. And then the poor old father and mother invoked the law.

The defense meets this young girl with "evidence" that she was born a natural prostitute. It was not enough for Baldwin to ruin her under promise of marriage, but he must employ able counsel to prove she was born a harlot. If there were a providence that his tongue would have been paralyzed when he testified that after this little girl had known him but three or four days she made amorous advances—went further than he did—actually seduced him—VIOLATED this virtuous old man! I'm sure you sympathize with him! He went into disgusting details to show that she was not a virgin. And to support him he brings to the stand some of the most horrible brutes—the most nameless things—that ever drew the breath of life. It were a libel on God to say that these animals, including defendant, were made in His image.

There is his witness,

IKE HARRIS,

a self-confessed liar—the fellow who says he saw Louise in an indecent position in the river-bed with a man he could not describe in the least. If Ike Harris had been engaged to Louise, as he claims, he would probably have lived in the El Monte ball-room in the presence of 30 or 40 people. [Harris said 30 or 40 couples.—REP.] We have disproved this by unimpeachable witnesses, all of whom testify to the lady's perfect good behavior there. If those balls had not been respectable, Baldwin with his money could have found some witness to say so other than the lying and infamous Harris. Mr. Clark says that, long after these improprieties that Harris swears to, Harris wanted him to GET HIM MARRY LOUISE.

After that, too, this poor, perjured, dishonored brute told Mr. Cobbe that he believed the girl's virtue was impregnable! And then, long after these things, he testifies that he broke off his engagement with the girl simply because she was going with Baldwin! What man could have been hired to come here, as Harris must have been, to testify falsely against this girl? Oh, no, they never got any money. You never saw one of those fellows that got a cent. No, they just come and

TESTIFY FOR FUN!

Now we come to this man they call the "respectable farmer" Cawelti. He 'came down to see his brother at the Mouth.' It's a beautiful time for a farmer to leave his farm and go 120 miles. It must have been urgent business. He didn't go down to see his brother at all. No, he was loading several days about this town in company with Ike Harris and Baldwin, the beautiful Collyer—the man who has been hunting witnesses and buzzing them, from Colton to Ventura. We have shown how Collyer went to see Bud Sweeny to get him to swear falsely against the girl. Did they dare put Collyer on the stand to contradict Bud? No! If they had we'd have sent him to as we will some of their other perjured witnesses. This el Cawelti [pimp], as the Spaniards would call him, meets honest George Barron here and tells him that he cant say anything against the girl. He denies this conversation, but Barron says he did say so. You can take your choice between George Barron and Cawelti. Cawelti testified to an indecent story to support Baldwin's tale that the girl was not a virgin, and that, finding this out, the virtuous Baldwin was justified in breaking his engagement. Cawelti's story is

ON THE FACE A LIE.

This infamous liar had tried to tempt Bruce McIntyre to take some of Baldwin's money. You remember Cawelti swore that it was Jack Methvin who was with the girl when the girl in illicit intercourse with Sweeney. He asked Bruce for Jack, and then said as Jack was away. He asked Bruce to commit the perjury, but Bruce refused. He sought Jack. Jack is a disgraced and petit larceny convict. Cawelti swore that this was not in evidence. [Jack was subpœnaed here as one of their witnesses. He is not here. Why didn't they put him on the stand?

He was in the city then. They dared not bring him on after finding we knew of his conviction of petit larceny. We have completely overthrown the evidence of these perjured witnesses—Ike Harris and John Cawelti. [Here he reviewed more of Cawelti's many contradictions, which have been already made sufficiently plain.] And the defense will ask us to believe these broken-down, perjured witnesses, with

LIES WRITTEN IN THEIR FACES!

Mrs. Dexter said she had caught plain[illegible] in a dishonorable position with Ben Cuipin. [Here he pointed out the palpable absurdities of Mrs. Dexter's story.] Her Ben Cuipin story is improbable for another reason. Mrs. Dexter wanted Baldwin to marry Miss Broderick. She was determined 'to break it up.' Why didn't she tell Baldwin? If this Cuipin story were true, the snails wouldn't have traveled fast enough for her to tell Baldwin of it. In her deposition she says she told him not till after this suit was brought. She admits now she was mistaken in her deposition, and that she told Baldwin six months before he was sued or tried. This is to give him a reason for breaking off his engagement. Either Mrs. Dexter to seduce and prostitute this child, or she knew a plot to destroy relations were honorable and objected because she wished him to m rry Miss Broderick.

Baldwin tries to prove he never was engaged to Louise, and that she was engaged to Chas. Blackley—this honorable man who swore he'd been engaged to her and then broke off her engagement! There is no weight to the matter, even if she had been engaged to Blackley. They catch at straws. It is fabricated testimony, false, perjured and bought.

THEN THERE'S HIS WIFE, and the circumstances bear her out. His version bears the impress of falsehood. He says he went to that store and asked to see her in private—just to see what she meant by a little note she had sent

A YEAR BEFORE.

He said he had promised to lend her $500 to visit an uncle East—and conveniently forgot it. A little matter of $500 slipped his mind! Who believes that? She declined to go away with him, and returned to her honest employment in the store. [Here Baldwin entered.] There is no breath of suspicion against her conduct there. But she felt her position keenly—the scorn and slights she met. And at last she left this city in desperation with Mr. Fallon, planning
